BAIKAL

Lake Baikal is one of the world's largest lakes that has unique features.

- Lake Baikal is a repository of 20% of the world 's and 90% of Russia's fresh water supplies.

- The water volume in Lake Baikal is 23,000 cub. km. It is more than five Great Lakes of North America combined.

- The lake's length from the south to the north is 636 km. Its greatest width is 80 km. The Lake Baikal's coastline makes up 2,000 km, while the area of its water surface is 31,500 sq. km.

- 336 rivers flow into Lake Baikal while only one river flows out of it, the Angara River.

- Lake Baikal has 27 islands with Olkhon Island being the largest.

- Flora and fauna of Lake Baikal are endemic with 3/4 of its species not found anywhere else in the world.

- In 2019 Baikal entered the top of 52 vacation spots according to "The New York Times".

- UNESCO called Olkhon Island "Galapagos Islands of Russia."

IRKUTSK

Irkutsk is one of the oldest cities of Russia, it was founded in 1661 as a fortress to defend against enemy raids.

- Irkutsk has preserved many old beautiful mansions. Monuments of Irkutsk are of both national and global significance.

- Currently, there are 501 monuments in Irkutsk that are protected by state along with 810 newly identified objects of historical and cultural interest. Of particular value are wooden buildings of the 19th – early 20th century allocated in four conservation areas.

- Coat of arms of Irkutsk depicts a black “babr” - an Amur tiger with a sable in its mouth.
